

Costs and Associated Charges Policy

At CrowdX, we are committed to providing transparent and fair services to our clients. We strive to keep costs and charges to a minimum, ensuring that our users can access our platform without encountering unnecessary fees.

1. Charges and Inducements

We do not charge investor any fees for using our platform For Project Owners, separate fees will apply in the document designated as ‘Costs and Associated Charges for Project Owners’ which will form part of the agreement between the Project Owner and CrowdX.

The Company and other relevant persons will not accept inducements from those with a material interest in the subject-matter of the investment project.

2. Inactivity Fees

We do not impose any inactivity fees on our clients. You can access and use our platform at your convenience without worrying about being penalized for inactivity.

3. Bank Charges

Please note that standard bank charges may apply for receiving and making transfers. These charges are imposed by the banks involved in the transaction and are beyond the control of CrowdX. We recommend that clients familiarize themselves with their bank's fee schedule to understand any potential charges associated with transfers.

4. Fee Transparency

While CrowdX does not charge any fees directly to clients, we are committed to transparency regarding any third-party charges that may apply. We will strive to communicate any potential bank charges or other associated costs to our clients upfront, ensuring clarity and informed decision-making.

5. Review and Updates

We regularly review our Costs and Charges policy to ensure it remains aligned with our commitment to fairness and transparency. Any updates or changes to our policy will be communicated to our clients in a timely manner.
